Our story

Two parents and a toymaker

Little Lark started at a kitchen table with a broken plastic toy and a question: why does nothing last?

We found a toymaker who works in beech and maple, and a mill that weaves organic cotton. Everything since has come from people we have met.

Every toy is safety tested, then tested by our own children. The second test is harder.

Toys by age, without the noise

Under one: things to hold, shake and chew. One to three: things to stack, push and pour. Three to five: things to pretend with. Five and up: things to build and break.

Fewer, better, and out of sight in rotation. A toy that comes back after a month is new again.
